SECOND ANNUAL REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE
NEW BOSTON CEMETERY.
1869 TO 1870.

FELLOW TOWNSMEN:—In making our report to you, we would recognize with thankfulness, that during the twelve months so quickly fled, no pestilent fever, or contagious infection has visited our town. But only from time to time, in God's infinite mercy, have our ranks been thinned by the hand of death. Although we cannot report to you the grounds where the dust of those we love has been consigned (and to whose faithful bosom we must come full soon), in such a state of completeness and beauty as we hoped a year ago we might; the time has not been wholly unimproved. The scarcity of labor, with an empty treasury, is the only reason we can offer why our cemetery has not been made more convenient and attractive. We set several times when voluntary labor from the citizens would be received, but in some instances storms prevented, and the pressure of business with great scarcity of help, made it impossible till after the busy season was past, when, on account of the freshet, so much help was needed elsewhere, we thought it best to wait another season and then look for such labor from you.

At our last report, the grounds south of the old yard were not enclosed, leaving the whole cemetery open to straggling cattle and horses. Receiving no proposals for putting up a suitable wall that we felt you would be satisfied with, Mr. G. A. Wason, finally put off his own work long enough to put in a good substantial and tasty wall, charging only for day wages, and costing you with better work, less than the lowest proposal received. This, with a temporary fence erected between the residence of Robert Whipple—deceased—and the cemetery grounds occupied, is all the work we have authorized to be done at any expense to you. The subject of a receiving tomb was considered by us early in the season, and after correspondence with those experienced in such matters, we deemed it advisable that when built, it should be apart from other tombs and we had a plan in view; but though you had voted us an appropriation expressive of your willingness to become responsible for the payment of such an enterprise, we could not negotiate the work satisfactorily, and finally concluded to postpone the work till we had a fuller expression of your views and a valid appropriation for the same. There has been a visible improvement in the old yard by the attention the Superintendent, G. M. Shedd, has paid to the suppression of that noxious briar so long a nuisance to the public, the trimming up of the shade trees, the removal of numerous cobble-stones which have long been accumulating, and the righting up of old grave stones neglected by those who should be interested in keeping them in decent order. We are happy to commend the improvement of quite a number of lots in the old yard and also the better class of monuments that are each year being put up, and express the desire that those who have lots in the old yard should see that they are improved and not left as something unworthy of any attention. Of the portion of the cemetery lotted off, quite a part has already been taken up, and we hope those who intend improving lots will immediately select such lots as the spring opens. Eighteen of the lots, beside that occupied by the expensive and ornamental tomb of N. C. Crombie, and Dr. N. P. Clark, have been sold. There remains work that is necessary for the convenience of the grounds and the availability of the lots that should be done the coming season, and we mention it that you may with us, share a common interest. The contemplated road around the old yard could be put in a state suitable for use by a little gratuitous labor from those who have not already contributed, in the removal of the loose stones left of the old walls and a little grading, and would add more than any other work to the improvement and appearance of the cemetery. The building of a receiving tomb, is a work the importance of which you feel, so we may hope before the ground is again covered by snow, it will be completed. In times of heavy rains and when the snow melts in the spring it washes on to the old yard near the hearse house so much that some method to dispose of it must be found. We must also urge the necessity of those persons having friends buried in the old yard making out as complete a record as possible of such burials and handing it in to us that it may not be lost, and that we may sometime have a complete history of the cemetery which may be of great value for reference.

Finally, of all matters pertaining to the burial of our dead, that which should and does reflect discredit and shame upon us, as a Christian community, is the disgraceful condition of our hearse. With all the tender sympathies we can offer the bereaved, in uniting with them in their last offices of regard to the departed, it is hard enough for them to bear their grief without adding such an insult to their feelings as to bring the town hearse to convey the loved ones to their final resting place. Though all other duties pertaining to these matters go undone, shall not this receive such early consideration as our own self-respect demands?

We give you, from the Superintendent's record, the following report of interments and removals:

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

Many of our schools in this town are so small, that it is almost impossible to get that interest in them that should be, and indeed would be if they were larger. Money in such cases, must be spent to a great disadvantage to the schools and town. A number of our school houses are in a bad condition; and have not been much improved during the past year, greatly to the mortification of all concerned. School teachers should be a progressive class of persons; the very last that should be excused from not making progress by their daily learning; so doing, they thus prepare themselves to interest and instruct their pupils, and take a higher stand for teaching and usefulness. All teachers who do not progress, ought to understand that they are keeping back those who desire to keep up with the improvements of the day. Nothing is more pleasing to parents than to see their children advancing in scholarly habits of an improved character, and certainly teachers ought to be patterns in this respect, in order to obtain the desired improvements.

Parents and guardians should furnish their children with the most modern and improved text books; by so doing our schools will not fall behind other communities nor fail to realize the best possible results. I am happy to state during the past year at the close of each term of the schools, the examinations have been well attended by the parents and others, thereby manifesting their interest in their children, also their approbation of my desires for their improvement; and I will here state that in all my visits I have been most cordially received by them, and also by the prudential committee and scholars. During the year I have not ordered any new text books. Aided by the Secretary of the Board of Education, I have been able (for the sake of uniformity and benefiting the schools) to give each scholar one of Qickenbos' Grammar in exchange for any one they had; by so doing, teachers have been able to classify their scholars to the advantage of both teacher and pupil. An agent for a company in Boston has introduced (with my approbation) a series of Union readers, and has been successful in their reception in many of our schools greatly to the advantage, I think of all concerned. Aided by the normal instructions we are and have been receiving, I think will operate as a stimulus upon teachers and committees, that will provoke an emulation which will raise the standard of our schools equal to any of the country town schools. In District No. 10, their old school house was so badly burned, they have had no public school during the past year.

DISTRICT NO. 2.

Summer term, Ira Cristie, Agent.

Miss Lucie S. Stiles, Teacher. This school the summer term of only 8 weeks, was considerably larger than last year. Miss Stiles is yet young, possessing the elements of a good teacher, a modern and good scholar; the school showing a commendable progress for so short a term.

Fall term, Mary A. Campbell, Teacher. This was a school of only 7 weeks; of a decided success for the length of the term; the pupils appeared in good order and under good discipline, though not as large in number as the summer term.

Winter term, Juliana A. Rowe, Teacher. This was a term of 10 weeks; Miss Rowe is a teacher of considerable experience, and at the examination discovered to me a patient faithfulness and ability, that is praiseworthy in any teacher.

DISTRICT NO. 3.

R. B. Cochran, Agent.

Summer term, Miss Lizzie Cochran, Teacher. This is a school small in age and number. I visited it at the commencement; found but little interest.

Fall term, taught by Hellen A. Kelso. This was Miss Kelso's first effort at teaching; pupils all young, and small in number, but giving evidence of a proper training by their recitations in all their studies, of an approved character.

DISTRICT NO. 4.

James Danforth, Agent.

Teacher, Mary L. Kelso. Summer term, 8 weeks. Miss Kelso is a teacher of some experience, and of the progressive order, her scholars all appearing orderly and industrious, a marked improvement in all branches studied, manifesting the success and ability of a faithful and good teacher.

Winter term, same teacher, of 9 weeks, of like improvement and success.

DISTRICT NO. 5.

John R. Cristy, Agent.

Teacher, Miss Lucie M. M. Read. This was Miss Read's first attempt at teaching, and I think with good success; few scholars very much advanced, but as far as they had gone seemed properly instructed; the questions in all the branches studied, promptly and understandingly answered.

DISTRICT NO. 6.

Nelson Philbrick, Agent.

Miss M. Hellen Woodbury, Teacher. Miss Woodbury is a teacher of considerable experience, very faithful and industrious; her pupils showing great improvement in many studies, particularly in mental and written Arithmetic, Geography, and repeating their rules with a great deal of precision for a term of only 7 weeks.

Winter term, 9 weeks, Teacher, Miss Lydia A. Dodge. Miss Dodge is a successful and experienced teacher, having taught many terms, and I believe to the general satisfaction of all concerned. At the examination the scholars appeared happy and cheerful, giving ready answers to all the questions in orthography, etymology, geography, &c.; also to their rules in grammar and arithmetic, and all other studies pursued, showing the industry and faithfulness of the teacher; having so much to exhibit, from their studies, compositions, declamations, &c., we found one-half day not sufficient to hear all, and was obliged to omit a class in philosophy and algebra.

DISTRICT NO. 7.

William Parker, Agent.

Teacher, Miss Mary M. Lufkin. This is a small school; scholars young, none sufficiently advanced to bring out the tact of the teacher, but so far as I could discover, exhibited a faithfulness, patience and perseverance, necessary to manage well, small children who have made good improvement for a term of 10 weeks.

Winter term. Two attempts by two teachers, both broken up by sickness of teachers.

DISTRICT NO. 8.

Rodney McLane, Agent.

Teacher, Miss Sarah L. Cochran, for both summer and winter terms, one 14, the other 10 weeks. This is a primary school, the scholars young; at the examinations the children exhibited a knowledge of arithmetic, grammar, &c., that would have done honor to older scholars. The order and affection manifested by the children for their teacher, was particularly noticed by all present, and still further manifested by a very pretty present to Miss Cochran, who appears singularly adapted for such a school. The declamations by the pupils were highly appreciated by all present, as were all their recitations.

DISTRICT NO. 8.

Teacher, Miss Ellen M. Tucker, term 14 weeks. This is a graded or grammar school; the only one of this class in town, where we have a right to expect much; on account of not having any small or backward scholars, the appearance is different from any other school. Miss Tucker is a teacher of high reputation as a scholar and disciplinarian, and at her examination the order, advance, and skill manifested was very fine in all branches taught.

Winter term of the grammar department was taught by S. H. Waters. Mr. Waters is a graduate of one of the normal schools in Vermont. I certainly congratulate the district in having so competent a teacher and I think he has advanced the school very finely and thoroughly in all the fundamental principles of an English education. Many of his scholars are being finely trained and fitted for teachers, and as he is about engaging a private school, I hope more of our teachers will avail themselves of his normal instructions. At the examination, the compositions, declamations, analysis, and answers to their varied studies were all of a highly cultivated order.

DISTRICT NO. 9.

A. Warren, Agent.

Teacher, Miss Saphronie J. Farley of both terms: first 8 weeks, second 11 weeks. This was Miss Farley's first attempt at teaching, had a small school of young children where we did not expect much, and yet I believe she gave entire satisfaction. The last term, near the close was interrupted and finally broken up by sickness.

DISTRICT NO. 10.

Wanting.

DISTRICT NO. 11.

Fernando Bumam, Agent.

Teacher Miss Abbie J. Cross of Summer and Winter terms. Miss Cross is a young teacher, possessing many of the elements and qualifications for a good teacher. First term 10 weeks, at the end of which the school appeared well, order good.

Winter term, 12 weeks, of a decided improvement, could hardly judge in which branch the most; but in reading I think, yet in all others they appeared very finely.

DISTRICT NO. 12.

Samuel Dane, Agent.

Teacher, Mrs. Lydia S. Langdell. This a Union school with Francestown; small in number, but some of them quite advanced in many of the higher branches, Algebra, Geometry, etc. Mrs. Langdell is an experienced teacher of a high order and ability; and I can certainly congratulate the district in being able to obtain her services. Term 10½ weeks.

DISTRICT NO. 13.

J. Page Todd, Agent.

Teacher, Miss Emmie M. Colburn, Summer term. This was Miss Colburn's first school, being one of the progressive kind possessing a comprehensive and vigorous mind, with the elements of a good teacher, most that is wanting is experience. At the examination, the school appeared orderly, the recitation were prompt and understandingly given in the first rudiments and also in all their advanced studies exhibiting good improvement during the term.

Teacher, Charles H. Shed, Winter term. Mr. Shed is a young teacher, possessing the qualities and ability of a good teacher; the examination passed off finely, the scholars all answering their questions in their studies promptly and understandingly, showing they had been properly trained. Some things were quite noticeable, the improvement in writing and spelling, the best class in spelling of its number of scholars that I have witnessed in town.

Teacher, Miss Ida F. Lord of Summer and Fall terms. Miss Lord is a young teacher of the progressive order, if anything is wanting to make a successful teacher it is experience. She seemed well posted in the rules and first principles of the English language, that forms the foundation of a good scholar. Her examination passed off nicely showing a decided improvement.

Winter term; the same teacher with like success, with pretty much the same scholars.

Mrs. R. Hellen Wilson, Teacher of both terms. First term, seven weeks; second term, six weeks. This is a small school; for years has had but poor advantages. At my visits the children appeared orderly and industrious, anxious to learn. Mrs. Wilson is a teacher of considerable experience, industrious and faithful, and at the close of the term, the school presented a decided improvement.

Teacher, Miss Mary F. Atwood. Term, 10 weeks. Miss Atwood is one of our most modern teachers; her school, the order and general management, was more like the Massachusetts schools than any school that I have visited in this region; her systematic manner of imparting instruction, the music taught and practiced, the gymnastic exercises, the good improvement in their recitations, promptly answering the questions in all the branches pursued, gave evidence of the ability of the teacher.

Teacher, George M. White, Winter term of 7 weeks. The examination at the close of the term was very good for the length of the school; the promptness and exactness by which the answers to the questions given in Grammar, Geography, and Arithmetic, and indeed all other studies, showed the training and ability of the teacher of a high order.

Perry Richards, Agent.

Teacher, Miss Mary Richards, term 5 weeks. This is a Union school of New Boston and Weare. This is quite a school, some scholars quite advanced. My visit there was not at the close, but when there, the school appeared orderly, every thing being done in a scholarly manner. Miss Richards is a teacher of experience and ability.

ALEXANDER GREGG, Supt. of Public Schools.
